

PERIMETER INSTITUTE

The Perimeter Institute

Perimeter Institute for Theoretical Physics was designed with two very simple objectives — to drive creative thought and facilitate the world's deepest thinkers. This warm and friendly structure welcomes natural light and a harmonious balance of public, private, and research space. When it came time to selecting the furniture, the Institute used a method that everyone was very familiar with — the scientific method. Scientists were asked to test office furniture from many different manufacturers. The result — they kept on coming back to Haworth products. Comfort, control, views, daylight, privacy, lighting, and ergonomics are all key factors in human performance.

"It is Brigholme's dedication to making our ideas work and their understanding of our unique culture and atmosphere that makes us continue to call on Brigholme for all our workspace needs."

– Colleen Brickman, Director of Operations at Perimeter Institute.
